Welcome to MK - but where is it?

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

VISITORS to the city are getting lost because there are no signs telling them where to go.

MK NEWS has discovered that more than half the people that visit looking to experience its attractions find it difficult knowing where to find them.

Now some of the city's most influential figures from the world of retail and tourism are calling for signs to be put up across the city.

Kay Greenhalgh, city centre manager, believes that the lack of signposts is a bad sign for businesses and visitors alike.

"When people arrive in Central Milton Keynes, particularly at the train station, many of them don't know where to go. There are very few directional signs to the likes of the Hub, shopping centres, Theatre and Gallery. People are getting taxis to the Hub even though it is a short walk there.

"Other cities have signage to welcome and guide people. Businesses are very concerned – we've got such fantastic facilities to offer but so many people don't know they are there and how to get to them."

The council, which is in charge of signage, acknowledged the problem three years ago when, along with Milton Keynes Partnership, it commissioned the design of a signposts strategy. These included maps, 'you are here' locators, and walking distance indicators. But nothing happened.

Recent data collected by thecentre:mk revealed that more than half of people visiting the city, 51 per cent, say they find it difficult to know where they are once here.

Even of those who live here, 32 per cent, say it can be confusing to know where you are.

Robert Goodman, director for thecentre:mk, says the city is suffering.

"Finding your way around Milton

PM gives his backing to anti-bullying scheme

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

THE Prime Minister has given his support to anti-bullying campaigner Alex Holmes.

The 20-year-old from Stony Stratford was invited to meet Gordon Brown at Number 10 Downing Street after he was nominated for ITV Anglia's Teacher of the Year Awards.

A technical blunder meant that Alex was stripped of the top award because of age restrictions but the company offered some compensation with a trip to London as other entrants met the PM.

Alex was nominated in recognition of his 'Heads High' anti-bullying campaign, which he has tirelessly spread across schools in Milton Keynes.

The former teaching assistant took a copy of MK NEWS along to show Mr Brown the coverage that his campaign has received.

Alex said: "I spoke to Gordon briefly about my work and my ideas.

"He mentioned his children and how we should all make sure school is a safe and happy place.

"I took the MK NEWS copy there because I was proud of being on the front page a while ago.

"Gordon said that the youth today have a powerful role to play in society and commented on how my work was really important and how important bullying as an issue is.

"It's just going to inspire me to make sure Anti-Bullying gets in every school across the UK.

"It's not just about bullying anymore; it's about looking out for each other."

Alex also spoke to Ed Balls, Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families, and Sarah Brown.

The terms and conditions of the awards state that nominees must be aged over 21, a requirement not listed on the entry form, but because ITV admitted the blunder Alex was also given VIP access to the 'Pride of Britain' award ceremony and met dozens of television and sports celebrities.

SHOW ME A SIGN: City centre manager Kay Greenhalgh

Visitors ask: 'Where do we go from here?'

Keynes clearly impacts on customer satisfaction. If a customer has a bad experience getting here they may choose not to visit again and or tell other customers of their experience," he said.

"This has a negative impact on the perception of both thecentre:mk and Milton Keynes. Ultimately, we want customers to have a great experience of Milton Keynes, passing the positive message on to others and way finding is part of that.

"Further, for anyone doing business in Milton Keynes this is clearly an area of dissatisfaction. Milton Keynes is ideally located between London, Birmingham, Oxford and Cambridge and with the M1 running so close getting to the city limits is very easy. However, if people can't navigate within the city all the hard work is lost."

Katharine Sorensen, head of marketing at Milton Keynes Gallery, said that many of the gallery's visitors, who come from all over the country to see the exhibits, arrive by train - and end up lost.

"Certainly visitors from London find it very strange indeed, being cultural travellers, that Milton Keynes is letting itself down by not signposting its assets. "The gallery would welcome any improvements supporting a better quality of signage."

Claire Van Tonder, centre manager of the Hub, said: "There's no signage at all for the Hub. Nobody knows it's there unless they already know it's there. It's a shame because our tenants have so much to offer."

The Milton Keynes masterplan, which set out the original vision for the city, said 'the safe and convenient movement of pedestrians throughout the city is a goal.'

However, the company in charge of tourism in the city, Destination Milton Keynes, believes this is prevented by a lack of signs.

General manager Jackie Inskipp said: "It is absolutely essential that visitors can easily find their way around in order to have the best possible experience of the city and encourage repeat visits.

"We do think more signage directing visitors to the city's tourist hotspots is required, especially at the station and throughout CMK. With so much to offer we must ensure the visitor finds Milton Keynes easy to navigate, accessible and enjoyable."

Elizabeth Adlington, chief executive of the theatre added: "We are looking to encourage new people to the theatre, including people from outside Milton Keynes.

"But we know that the signage for that is inadequate."

However, town planning chairman Professor David Lock, who is also a member of Urban Eden - the group dedicated to preserving the masterplan of Milton Keynes – believes the lack of signage is a positive thing.

He said: "If one does not have a map or guide book, it is quite normal to have to ask people for directions to a place in a city. In fact, talking to people is a very good thing and should be encouraged. It's what make cities civilised.

"A city that had signs to help you find everything would be hopelessly cluttered and therefore very ugly, lonely and boring."

A spokesman for Milton Keynes Council said: "The council is working to improve both road directional signing, as well as pedestrian and cycle signing throughout Milton Keynes.

"We have established two related projects, a wayfinding project for pedestrians and cyclists in CMK, and a strategic signing project for the whole of the road network throughout the borough."

They plan to hold a meeting later this week, particularly focusing on a trial series of signs on a route from the railway station to the main shopping centre.

Brass band's final salute to Simon

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A MEMBER of Stantonbury's brass band has been found hanged at his parent's house.

Simon Palmer was a flugel horn player for Stantonbury Brass for 18 years and was often featured as a soloist in their concerts.

The 31-year-old was found hanged at his parent's address in Cowper Close in Newport Pagnell on Sunday, September 28.

In a fitting tribute his bandmates will play at the funeral today.

Simon had trained with the Milton Keynes Music Service and worked for the Parks Trust as a landscape gardener.

An inquest, opened last Wednesday, October 1 heard how he was living with a friend in Bedford at the time and was visiting his parents.

The day before, Saturday, September 27, he was not able to go to work as he was depressed and anxious so spent the day with his sister.

He went to bed as normal but in the morning when his sister came to bring him a cup of tea she found him hanged against the bedroom window.

The emergency services were called and Mr Palmer was confirmed dead at the scene.

The inquest heard he had attempted to take his own life twice before and suffered from depression for 13 years.

No notes were found and the inquest was adjourned until December.

His father, Richard, told MK NEWS: "Simon was a very special person to us as a family and to all his many friends.

TOP BRASS: Flugel horn player Simon was a proud member of Stantonbury Brass for 18 years

"He was a lover of wildlife and music and he played with Stantonbury Brass since his early teens, never missing an engagement in 18 years.

"We were immensely proud of him."

Alan Jenkin, musical director of Stantonbury Brass said: "He was one of the nicest young men one could wish to meet.

"Stantonbury Brass was his life and we will miss him terribly."

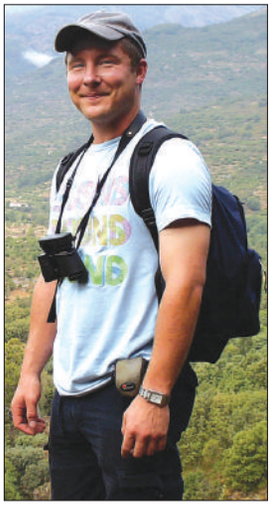
The Parks Trust is to plant his favourite tree, a Spindle, in his memory.

David Foster, chief executive of the trust, said: "We were extremely saddened by the tragic loss of Simon.

"He was a popular and very valued member of our team.

"His loss has been taken very hard by all our staff and we want to extend our deepest sympathy to his family and friends."

Mr Palmer, who was born in Wokingham, attended Ousedale School.



His funeral will be held at the Crownhill Crematorium today at 3.30pm.

In lieu of flowers, the family have asked for donations to be made to the charity MIND.

Acting head teacher steps in at special school

AN acting head teacher has been installed at a special school which has been rocked by serious health and safety allegations.

As reported in MK NEWS last week a member of staff has been suspended and the council-maintained Gatehouse School in Stantonbury is under investigation for 'health and safety' issues.

The school, which caters for boys aged 12 to 16 with emotional and behavioural difficulties, was forced to close for a day.

A statement from Milton Keynes Council released yesterday said: "We continue to work closely with the school and have appointed an acting headteacher with significant experience in similar schools to ensure the running of the school is maintained.

"Milton Keynes Council is committed to safeguarding the welfare and education of the young people who attend Gatehouse School.

"Inquries are ongoing but parents are assured that there are no current issues affecting the health and safety of pupils."

MK NEWS is unable to give any further details of the allegations for legal reasons.

Headteacher Suzanne Bell was unavailable for comment.

Jobs on the line at council's building dept

THE council was set to decide if 40 jobs at its building design arm Architecture MK would be lost last night.

Staff based at offices in Avebury Boulevard were told in September that their jobs were at risk after the business failed to win new contracts.

Over the last month staff have been asked for their views to see if anything further could be done.

The result was due to be presented to Milton Keynes Council's cabinet committee last night (Tuesday, October 7).

If it proved unsuccessful, the council will be putting in place a number of options to help workers find new work as quickly as possible.

Milton Keynes Council had started negotiating the transfer of the service to its private business partner Mouchel, but it became clear losses were higher than expected and a further internal review concluded the process should be brought to an end.

Earlier in the year Architecture MK had been unsuccessful in bidding for competitive tenders to build new schools in Milton Keynes and the department was facing a projected loss of more than £500,000 for 2008/2009.

The position was made worse by the threat of recession making the building design market much more competitive.

Architecture MK was set up in 1997 by Milton Keynes Council to provide professional building surveying, project management and property maintenance services to other council departments, schools and properties.

Lights in dark ages

SIR – There appears to be a great deal of opposition to change from the existing free flow to the stop start system that our traffic planners are intent on saddling us with.

Grid roads and roundabouts are the way forward as advocated by many of your correspondents and yet nearly all large roundabouts have now been installed with traffic lights.

Roundabouts need traffic lights like an F15 plane needs propellors.

Most drivers are apprehensive about entering a roundabout where the traffic is going around at high speed as is the case with most large roundabouts. This leads to build up of traffic. What is required is a system to slow people down as they enter the roundabout and of course on leaving it they can return to normal speed.

This is very similar to the system successfully employed on the M25 at peak flow of traffic where build up is reduced by speed management resulting in smoother flow.

Traffic lights actually STOP the flow of traffic for a certain percentage of the time and consequently poor traffic management.

Park up at our meeting

SIR – As Chairman of Old Bletchley Neighbourhood Action Group, I would like to reply to the writer of 'School run rage' letter in your October 1 edition.

One of our priorities (as identified by local residents in the Old Bletchley area) is parking and we are aware of the problems being caused by inconsiderate parking at St Thomas Aquinas School. A meeting has already been held with representatives of the school with a view to finding a way to resolving this. A further meeting is planned shortly.

I would like to reassure residents, businesses and parents/guardians that we are working towards a resolution to this problem. If anyone would like to come along to one of our meetings and put forward ideas, they would be very welcome as we are looking to increase the resident participation of our Neighbourhood Action Group.

Rosemary Farr
Church Green Road, Bletchley

Hate to say I told you so

SIR – It was much more than interesting to read your spread about Milton Keynes being recognised as one of the best in the country at cleaning up (MK NEWS October 1) but especially joyous to see the 'X' against the council's attempts at clearing street litter.

I don't like to say it but I'm going to say it this time.

I told you so.

I have been campaigning to overcome street litter and have taken it more seriously for over two years including being an estate residents association member, contacting the council and being in long conversations with local police.

I was either given empty promises or not listened to, now this is what has happened, Milton Keynes has failed.

As dropping litter has become an offence, why has it taken the council 18 years to act? It is no doubt that without people like myself the fly-tipping, fly posting and graffitti wouldn't have been touched either.

As I told these establishments before, they need to listen to all of what the 'common' public say and act on it thoroughly, otherwise Milton Keynes will fail again.

We are a green example of how to get around thanks to our quick grid

SIR – I would like to propose that our Mayor asks the publishers of the Guinness Book of Records to record that Milton Keynes is the greenest town of its size (and larger) in the UK, probably in Europe.

This is due to our 70 and 60mph grid roads which allow travel across the city for work, shopping and pleasure using our cars in their most green-friendly manner.

Our grid roads with their high speed limits allow cars to be driven in their highest gear at a sustainable speed unhindered between our widely spaced roundabouts.

Unfortunately, our buses are not green so shouldn't be mentioned in the application.

I use buses when convenient and have a free bus pass so I'm grateful to the bus companies who provide the buses.

However, buses are heavy so need big engines and their journeys are in low gear as they zigzag relatively slowly through our estates.

They typically have only a few passengers through most of the day.

Fortunately, we don't see many buses because they are only used by an insignificant proportion of us (five per cent).

We therefore need measures to encourage more people to use their cars rather than buses, including a great deal more (FREE) car-parking space in the city centre and around the railway station.

To enhance the application, traffic lights which stop cars along the grid roads at all hours of the day and night, frequently on empty roads, should be replaced with signs saying, "Please give way to cars entering and leaving our grid roads."

Any suggestion by anyone to expand our city without extending the 70mph grid roads should, of course, be strongly rejected by our local (unelected) quango, the council officers, our councilors and by us citizens, 95 per cent of whom use cars and who at election time the councilors claim to represent. Watling Street is a prime example of the need for dualling and certainly doesn't need those abominable traffic lights.

Subsequent measures to encourage motorists will maintain our claim that we are the greenest town in the UK. Roads crossing the town centre should be restored back to their earlier limits, or higher.

Note that when speeds are lowered, pedestrians as well as needlessly frustrated motorists are inclined to take more risks, thereby increasing the accident rates.

Idiots litter

SIR – It is not surprising that the Local Environment Quality Survey has told MK Council that more work needs to be done to improve the problem of street litter.

Parts of the city are a disgrace and to be fair to the council they appear to be fighting a losing battle. What chance have you got when many residents, particularly on the estates around the city centre don't seem to give two hoots what their streets look like.

There is litter, broken glass and abandoned household items all along stretches of these estates. You only need to walk along any redway in Fishermead or Conniburrow and you will see the sort of problem that the council is facing.

These people show so much disregard for their local environment that if they were standing next to a bin I am sure they would rather drop it on the floor than do the right thing.

And it is not just the young that are at faulk, although I have to say that they are the cause of much of the litter.

The other day I was riding through Fishermead on my way home when someone appeared from a nearby house with two bags of rubbish and just lobbed them into a bush right infront of me.

I said something like 'can't you put it in a bin' and they told me to go away in the richest Anglo Saxon!

What chance have you got?

Mr P Butler
Shenley Church End

Red card to racists

SIR – IT was really encouraging to see your story last week on how the MK Dons football club are doing their bit to combat racism.

The Dons invited 500 schoolchildren to their ground and players from the first team squad took the time to speak to the kids on how to deal with racism and turn their backs on racists.

I am a regular at the Dons and thankfully I don't think I can recall a single occasion when I have heard racial chanting at the ground. That however, can not be said for every away ground I have visited in the past few seasons.

This included Saturdays trip to Millwall where there were several chants of a racist nature which I found disgusting.

There is no place for racism within our society and it is great to see the Dons getting youngsters to understand what is right and wrong. Well done to them and long may it continue.

Respect memorial

SIR – Re: The e-mail on September 17 from 'Colin' regarding my son's memorial.

I was very saddened and disappointed to read Colin's comments and would like to ask him if he has ever lost anyone in a road traffic accident?

Does he know how it feels to hear that your son never returned after taking a DVD back and that he had died in the middle of a road?

I fear not. My son Ricky James Fordham was a very special popular caring memer of the Milton Keynes community. He had lived in the area for over 15 years and during that time he was regarded and respected by all that knew him.

When you lose somebody in a road traffic accident you immediately have many questions and it is all so so hard to take in.

The police escort you to the place it happened. They show you the area where the person died, they give you time to stand and reflect on what's happened, to see the place where your child took his or her last breath. Blackmoor Gate is that place to me. My son took his last breath there.

Ricky's family and friends find comfort being at that place, they feel they can talk to him there, remember him there. At the time of Ricky's death we asked the police if we could put something there to remember him, they did not object.

A year has passed maybe, but the pain continues, I still live everyday as if it was Ricky's last. And hearing comments about how my son's memorial should be removed immediately hurts me deeply as it does Ricky's friends and family who do sometimes visit the area to pay their respects, which I have to add is fairly well out of the way and set back in the trees. It is not directly on the road side, we made sure we put it in a safe area. We have had great support from the community of Furzton and it seems Colin is the only person who finds my son's memorial offensive, especially after it was desecrated and stolen five times which was heartbreaking for me.

My mind boggles as to how people can be so heartless.

Pervert pleads guilty to sharing indecent images on the web

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A MAN from Walnut Tree who distributed thousands of indecent images of children has been spared a prison sentence.

Thirty-six-year-old Mark John Wasden traded thousands of indecent images over an internet chat room.

He pleaded guilty to 13 charges at Aylesbury Crown Court in July.

He was remanded in custody and appeared again in court last Thursday (October 2), when Judge Christopher Tyrer sentenced him to a three-year community order.

Wasden's arrest last year was part of a complex nation-wide investigation, led by Child Exploitation and Online Protection (CEOP), working with the Thames Valley Police High Tech Crime Unit.

He was arrested on October 26 at his home address and two computers were seized and analysed by the unit.

Wasden possessed a total of over 541 indecent images of children on the computers and 7,385 indecent images with intent to distribute them or show them to another.

More than 300 of the images were rated in the most serious category.

He also pleaded guilty to the distribution of a total of 2,074 indecent images of children and incitement of others to distribute a total of 2,946 images.

The offences occurred between September 2006 and October 2007.

Miss Walton, defending, said Wasden had a good previous record and has been married for nine years.

Judge Tyrer said: "There is sadly a market for these images and it extends worldwide.

"Every time these images are produced and distributed it means somewhere a child has been abused."

"No one knows what happens to these children and how it effects them both physically, emotionally and psychologically."

"Society expects that people like you should be punished."

He gave Wasden credit for pleading guilty at an early stage and for assisting the authorities.

He also bore in mind the fact he had 'felt the sting' of 65 days in custody.

He sentenced him to a three year community order with the condition that he complete the probation service's Sex Offender Group Work Programme.

He will be listed on the sex offender's register for five years and is banned from working with children.

As part of the same investigation four other suspects in the Thames Valley were identified as being part of an online chat group, who were sending and receiving child abuse images and discussing child abuse.

They were arrested late last year, leading to all four men pleading guilty at Oxford Crown Court.

Det Sgt Duncan Wynn, from the High Tech Crime Unit, said: "The success of this operation sends out a clear message that, despite offenders using more sophisticated methods to avoid detection, we will track them down and they will be brought to justice."

New Sainsbury's blooms into life at Witan Gate

Manager Nick Wynne with first customer Aroon Chummuangyen

SAINSBURY'S opened its new city store yesterday.

The Witan Gate store is nearly twice the size of the original stop in the Food Centre and has created 120 new jobs.

Children from Penwith school were also on hand to unveil the supermarket before it officially opened to the public at 9am.

Staff member Pat Morrin, who has worked with the company for 34 years, cut the ribbon along with store manager Nick Wynne.

Pat said: "The new Sainsbury's store is really unbelievable. The store looks quite incredible and will offer customers a unique supermarket shopping experience. I can't wait to try some of the Tu clothing and the staff facilities are fantastic – it's a real pleasure to work here"

The new store will feature a large general merchandise section which will include small electrical items, TVs and homeware products.

Customers will also be able to pick up prescriptions while they shop thanks to the in-store pharmacy.

The first customer through the door was Aroon Chummuangyen who was presented with a bunch of flowers.

Roundabout to M1 on the road to recovery

THE junction 14 roundabout is congestion free – but the roadworks will continue for a few more weeks.

That is according to Milton Keynes Council, which said that though the deadline for completion has been pushed back four times, the traffic has disappeared.

However driver Theo Chalmers, who heads the pressure group Urban Eden which campaigns to preserve Milton Keynes, said that this is not the case.

"It took me 23 minutes to get onto the M1 on Monday," he said.

"There was a huge queue that morning going back to the petrol station. It's far worse than it ever was. There are still huge holes everywhere. When they switch the traffic lights on it will be trebly bad."

A council spokeswoman said: "Although there are still some minor works in progress, we have achieved the objectives of reducing congestion around the M1 junction 14 by September 2008. Traffic now flows very well around the M1 junction 14 area.

"From 8.30am until just after 9am there are no problems whatsoever, certainly no congestion or queuing and vehicles that had to stop for the traffic signals go through in one cycle each time.

"Southbound M1 has been congestion free for over two weeks now whereas previously it queued back at least to Newport Pagnell Service Area. Minor cosmetic works such as sign erection, lighting and fencing will take another few weeks to finish."

The roadworks were meant to be finished in March, then the deadline was pushed back to the end of August – then to the last week in September.

Now the council estimates they will finally be finished within the next few weeks and the traffic lights will be switched on, on October 27.

The police officers in the line of fire

EVERY year MK NEWS receives police reports of armed robberies involving the use of firearms against local shop owners and innocent members of the public.
Our reporter ROB GIBSON takes a tour of the police unit equipped to deal with the rise in armed aggression

IN March this year a young man walked into the Theatre District as people celebrated Bank Holiday Monday, and fired a hand gun into the air.

No-one was injured and Detective Inspector Ray Summers reassured the public that such incidents are very rare in Milton Keynes.

Over the last year there have been 28 armed deployments by police in Milton Keynes.

Acting Superintendent Richard Auger invited me for a guided tour of the firearms unit at Milton Keynes Police Station, to demonstrate the police response to gun crime.

He is an accredited firearms commander for Thames Valley Police and in January will return to his former post as Head of Firearms.

"This organisation is primarily an unarmed organisation and we take great pride in that," he tells me.

THE GUNS OF MK: Some of the haul Thames Valley Police have confiscated, left. Right firearms instructor Kev Walker with Acting Superintendent Richard Auger

"However there are situations when we go up against armed people.

"If someone is seen in the Theatre District with a hand gun, in amongst the revellers, we need to look for an opportunity to neutralise that threat.

"Once the person is found, armed officers can bring them into custody.

"We would be very loathe to take someone out in the Theatre District because you think about collateral damage, unless we believe that that gunman is going to shoot someone imminently."

In 2003 the chief constable of Thames Valley Police, Peter Neyroud, vowed to double the number of armed response vehicles after the death of 27-year-old Jason Gifford in Aylesbury – the first fatal shooting involving the force.

> The last thing any armed officer wants to do is kill someone... Our primary job is to safeguard the public
> – Acting Superintendent Richard Auge

Mr Gifford was shot by a police marksman as he held his wife hostage using a three-foot samurai sword and replica pistol.

Mr Neyroud said that the police could have got armed response vehicles to the scene faster if they had the resources to deal with an 'increasing threat'.

Acting Supt Auger is keen to stress that Authorised Firearms Officers (AFOs) undergo rigourous training to resolve firearms incidents without bloodshed.

"There is always an armed reponse vehicle in Milton Keynes," he says.

"The last thing any armed officer wants to do is kill someone.

"One responsibility is to respond to shootings, armed robberies and any criminal use of firearms.

"Our primary job is to safeguard the public."

Acting Supt Auger adds: "In Milton Keynes we have dealt with quite a lot of drugs and gun related crime.

"It ranges from somebody seen in possession of a gun, to people being threatened, to shootings and shots being fired.

"We must contain that threat."

With that in mind, I am introduced to Ed Mclean, head of firearms training, who leads me through a maze of corridors to the firing range.

Firearms students undergo weapons training on a 25 metre range with three lanes and targets.

Half a dozen members of the 'protection group', who specialise in protecting government officials, dignitaries, and VIP guests, are being briefed when we arrive.

Inspector Mclean says: "They need to be very good, confident police officers.

"The majority of firearms activity in Milton Keynes is domestic related or it's children who are spotted with replica weapons.

"All firearms officers are volunteers who take on all of this responsibility – we don't pick them.

"We test their decision making and make sure they can handle firearms."

The officers move down the range in synchronised motion, holding shields and firing rounds into the targets at the far end.

The exercise is intended to improve 'muscle memory' so that they know how their bodies will respond.

The aim is always to hit the centre of the target's chest, not the head, legs or arms.

These officers are trained to use a range of weapons, including a self-loading pistol, the Glock 17, and a high velocity assault rifle, the Colt M4.

They need to be accurate with a handgun from 20 metres.

Next, Inspector Mclean introduces me to two of the Force's armorers, who request that their names be witheld.

The first says: "There is no illegal gun trade in Milton Keynes, at least not that we know of.

"Our biggest concerns come from Customs, who, for example, discovered a crate with 20 of these silenced Uzi machine guns, which came into Heathrow."

But then he puts down the Uzi and points to a bundle of guns which were confiscated from a member of public in Milton Keynes just days earlier.

It includes five hand guns and three rifles.

Some of the weapons confiscated require special certificates, others require permission from the Home Office, and some are so unsafe that even these experts refuse to test them.

One armorer holds up what appears to be an old walking stick before cocking it and aiming it at me.

There are also a range of crude homemade guns including one that looks like a pea shooter and a taser gun disguised as a mobile phone.

Others include an incredibly powerful air rifle, manufactured for the export market, but found in Buckinghamshire.

As the tour comes to an end Acting Supt Auger says: "It's very clear now that we've a duty to get infront of any threat to the public even if it means that police officers can lose their lives.

"The perfect firearms career would be putting dangerous people behind bars and to never be involved in a firearms shooting."

Don't be wet behind the ears – prepare for floods

MILTON Keynes Council is holding a series of 'flood fairs' to warn about the dangers of severe winter weather.

The events organised by Milton Keynes Council, the Environment Agency, the National Flood Forum, Thames Valley Police, and Buckinghamshire Fire and Rescue Services are being run during Thames Valley Flood Awareness Week which runs until Sunday (Oct 12).

The idea is to show householders and businesses how to prepare for flooding by demonstrating practical actions they can take to reduce damage to their property

The first event at Stoke Goldington was held on Monday a village particularly badly hit by flooding last year.

Other events are being held at:

- Heronsgate School, Walnut Tree today from 3:30 - 7:30pm
- Newport Pagnell Fire Station on Friday from 12 noon – 7:30pm
- Stony Stratford and Newport Pagnell libraries static display all week.

The awareness week will also offer advice on how to stay safe during serious flooding whatever its cause, as well as to provide help and information for anyone who affected by flooding.

Also during this week a booklet featuring potentially life saving advice is being delivered to every home in Milton Keynes.

The booklet 'Are You Prepared' will carry essential basic advice about what to do in the event of crises such as fire, flooding or disease outbreak.

Vanessa McPake, the council's cabinet member responsible for Emergency Planning, said: "There are some emergencies that you can't plan for, but many others that you can – or at least be aware of.

Firefighters wade through the water in Stoke Goldington

This booklet provides basic, practical advice, and we hope it will also encourage people to think ahead.

"I would urge residents to make sure they look out for their copy of 'Are You Prepared'. Read it, get all your family and friends to read it, keep it in a prominent place, refer to it as required and make sure you are prepared.

"It could save your life and the lives of your loved ones."

Cathy Wilkes' Turner-nominated artwork was exhibited in Milton Keynes

MK artwork up for Turner prize

AN artist has been nominated for the prestigious Turner Prize for an exhibition held in Milton Keynes.

Cathy Wilkes' work is now on show at the Tate Britain in London as part of the prestigious annual Turner Prize Award.

The Glaswegian artist is one of four up for the prize and is the second artist in two years to be nominated on the strength of their exhibition at Milton Keynes Gallery.

Gallery director Michael Stanley, who was present at the Turner Prize opening on Monday, September 29, said: "This is a fantastic recognition of the gallery's commitment to presenting a programme of artistic excellence."

Also in attendance was Milton Keynes Partnership chairman Ann Limb, who said: "How fantastic for Milton Keynes Gallery to have such a strong presence at this year's Turner Prize exhibition which is such a prestigious occasion in the international cultural calendar.

"It gives great national profile not just to the achievements of the gallery but to the city itself."

Cathy Wilkes' work, which was exhibited in Milton Keynes from April 16 to June 8 this year, is arranged in installations comprising objects from her everyday domestic life.

The Turner winner will be announced at Tate Britain on December 1.

The Turner Prize exhibition will be open until January 18.

£65,000 drugs mule jailed for seven years

Judge makes example of courier who 'contributed to misery'

A 32-YEAR-OLD man has been sentenced to seven years in prison for smuggling cocaine into the UK.

Gavin Archibald Thorburn, of Scatterhill Close, Bradwell Village, was sentenced at Warwick Crown Court on Thursday after failing in a plot to smuggle one-and-a-half kilos of cocaine into the UK through Birmingham International Airport.

Thorburn was arrested by officers from the newly formed UK Border Agency (UKBA).

They seized the drugs found concealed in his luggage, when he arrived on a flight from Nairobi via Dubai on Monday, July 7.

Thorburn was charged under the Customs and Excise Management Act 1979 with attempting to import cocaine with a value of £65,000.

The street value of the drugs would be more than double that.

His Honour Judge Hodson, said: "The value of these drugs would increase once they hit street level and people and lives suffer.

"You contributed to the misery of these people.

"It is accepted you are a recruited courier but the Courts must make example of couriers to dissuade others."

John Theobald, Senior Investigating Officer for HMRC, said: "We're working alongside the newly formed UK Border Agency to stop these dangerous drugs entering the UK and to reduce the associated harm to our communities.

"This latest seizure of drugs reflects the strenuous and committed efforts of dedicated teams of officers. We aim to protect society from drug smuggling wherever we detect it, at the borders or inland, and will not hesitate to bring individuals before the courts."

Anyone with information relating to smuggled goods can contact the Customs Hotline on 0800 59 5000 or email customs.hotline@hmrc.gsi.gov.uk

A new CT scanner would prevent patient deaths

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A CORONER has found that hospital staff missed an opportunity to treat a dying patient.

Deputy coroner Tom Osborne called for a new CT scanner at Milton Keynes Hospital to help save lives in the future.

A two-day inquest into the death of 66-year-old Ann May Mercer (pictured) at the hospital concluded on Friday.

Mrs Mercer, from Downs Barn Boulevard, Downs Barn suffered from a disease of the colon and was admitted to hospital just after 8pm on January 28, 2008 suffering from abdominal pains.

She was seen at around 10pm that night in the clinical decisions unit by Dr Edith Okafor who decided not to refer her to surgery as the pain did not seem to be that serious.

Dr Okafor said she was not aware that Mrs Mercer was on a drug that suppresses the immune system, which could make her less sensitive to pain, as her previous medical notes were not available at the time.

At 9am the next morning consultant physician Dr George Robert MacFaul called for Mrs Mercer to have an urgent CT scan, but this did not take place until more than six hours later.

Dr MacFaul said: "The CT scanner is incredibly over worked at Milton Keynes Hospital, there is lots of people competing for the resource."

He also called for a surgical review which was carried out at around 5pm, when it was confirmed that she had suffered from perforation of a inflammed pouch in her colon.

She was taken into surgery that evening but died at 1.30pm on January 30.

Mr Osborne concluded that there had been a missed opportunity to render medical treatment to Mrs Mercer, but could not be sure if this made any difference to the outcome.

He announced that he would write a letter to the chief executive of the hospital calling for a new CT scanner, a medical imager that costs around £700,000, to be provided.

His recommendation will be forwarded to the Lord Chancellor and the hospital must respond within 52 days.

Mr Osborne gave a narrative verdict concluding that Mrs Mercer died of inflammation of a membrane in the abdominal cavity, septicaemia and multi organ failure.

Mrs Mercer, who was born in Exeter, had retired from her job visiting elderly people in their homes.

A spokesman for the hospital told MK NEWS: "The trust offers the family of the deceased, Ann Mercer, our deepest condolences.

"The coroner has proposed to write to the hospital's chief executive regarding the availability of CT scanning, and we will respond to this, as appropriate, following an investigation.

"Sadly, this patient was gravely ill on admittance and it was accepted that it is unlikely that an earlier CT scan, in this particular instance, would have altered the outcome.

"We would like to reassure our service users that patient safety and high quality care are the trust's top priorities and that this case will be reviewed to ensure that any identified improvements are implemented to develop our services."

Festive foodies help hospice

PAN-ASIAN restaurant Silk Road has put up its six foot tree without decorations – and three months early – in order to raise money for Willen Hospice between now and Christmas Day.

It is encouraging customers to bring a bauble on their next visit – and in return management will donate £1 to Willen Hospice.

General manager at Silk Road, Samad said: "Summer is truly over and the winter weather is here. Now begins the run up to Christmas, which offers many opportunities for helping others. Willen Hospice is very dear to my heart and I wanted to come up with a fun and exciting way to help them raise as much money as possible for their wonderful cause."

Men charged with heroin smuggling

TWO men will face trial for allegedly importing heroin worth over one million pounds into Luton Airport.

Matthew Flint, 22, and Brenton Tobin, 24, pleaded not guilty to the charges and were remanded in custody at Uxbridge Magistrates Court last Saturday.

They were arrested when they arrived at the airport on Sunday, September 14, after touching down on a flight from Istanbul, Turkey.

Both men were charged with being knowingly concerned in the importation of heroin.

Mr Flint, of Downing Close, Bletchley, is charged with importing 15 kilos of heroin, while Mr Tobin, of Denmead Close, Two Mile Ash, is charged with importing 11 kilos.

The case will be committed to the crown court on October 28.

Homeless FC vs Thames Valley Police

A TEAM of homeless people will take on the police in a football match to improve community relations.

Officers from the Fishermead neighbourhood policing team have formed a team to play guests of the estate's Orbit housing hostel.

Sgt Mark Ridley said: "Events like this allow us to strengthen links in our neighbourhoods and that helps us to get good intelligence on crime in the area." The match will take place at 7pm on Thursday at Walton High School, Walnut Tree.

Why I'm addicted to cross stitch

by Helen from HobbyCraft

I can enjoy it any time, any place, any where – and it's easier than painting – but the reason I'm addicted to cross stitch so much is more to do with pleasure than practicalities – although the latter is a bonus.

I don't consider myself 'creative' in the traditional sense. I'll never paint anything akin to Leonardo's Mona Lisa or Klimt's The Kiss, but I believe we all have it in us to be creative.

Some of my friends channel their creative energy into cooking, others into home making or painting with watercolours, for me cross stitch is my art – and my passion.

I can't think of anything else that gives me so much pleasure for so little - except maybe for walking! All you need is a chart – many can be downloaded free from the web these days - some fabric, coloured threads, needles and a pair of sharp scissors.

There's a truly enormous range of kits available too, from simple cards to samplers, fantasy scenes, Disney characters, famous works of art and so much more, which means you need never be short of ideas.

For the serious cross stitcher the bigger the choice the better - which is why HobbyCraft is my idea of heaven! You won't find a bigger choice of threads, materials, branded kits, haberdashery and accessories all under one roof anywhere else in the UK.

What's more, you get to touch and feel what you buy before you pay – much less risk of buying something you'll regret later.

From Afghan and Aida to Starlite and Zweigart, the choice of fabrics is amazing. There's a terrific range of stranded cottons and threads too, while the choice in tools and haberdashery is quite simply staggering, from chart holders, frames and hoops to magnifiers, thread winders and so much more.

Personally, I like to use a frame because it helps me produce more uniform stitches, but like many other gadgets they are desirable more than essential and you can acquire them over time.

My top tip for beginners is to start small like I did - you can get mini-cross stitch kits for card making for just 99p at HobbyCraft – and make sure it's a design you like. That way you'll be more motivated to complete it.

Who knows, once you've enjoyed the experience of completing your first project you might find you're addicted to cross stitch too!

Student barred from nightclub after a drunken online rant

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A STUDENT who wrote drunken abusive comments about a nightclub on Facebook has been barred for 'joining a smear campaign'.

Andrew Gilbert, 19, and his friends were initially refused entry to Opus nightclub in the city centre because they were told that the dress code had changed.

When Andrew returned to his home in Cranfield he logged on to the social networking website and posted an abusive message in a forum called 'Opus MK is proper sh*t'.

Last week he went back to the club but was ejected by a bouncer who had seen his comments on the internet.

Andrew said: "One of the bouncers spotted me and asked me to go outside.

"He said I had been involved in a smear campaign against Opus.

"Obviously I didn't have a leg to stand on.

"I don't want to repeat the things I said but I was really smashed at the time."

Andrew, a media student at Bedford University, has written an email apologising to the club's management but was told that he and his friends will remain barred.

He said: "I'm not going to lie, Opus is the best place to be.

"I made some stupid comments but I only have one night out a week and I would like to spend it in Opus."

The teenager has also launched a new Facebook forum of his own, called 'OPUS MK should forgive Andy and let him back in'.

John Houston, manager of Opus MK, said: "Some of the things that he wrote were quite nasty and vicious attacks on members of our staff.

"Due to the nature of the comments I felt it was best to bar him and his friends.

"They've done something wrong and they need to time for a cool down period.

"I've told them I will review my decision at the end of October."

The appliance of science is needed

WORM farms, Darwin's theory of evolution, facial recognition and a giant inflatable rocket.

Those are just some of the things Milton Keynes's second ever science festival has in store for residents between October 17 to 31.

The first week of the festival will be holding events in schools, including workshops on exploring the solar system.

The second week will hold family activities, such as an open day to learn about Oxley Woods and a focus on the observatory at the Open University.

The festival's big weekend will bring science to the shopping centres, with a giant rocket outside the Xscape building and a Nissan green car which made it from Lands End to John O'Groats with one tank in thecentre:mk.

Festival Coordinator Lindsey Shaw Greening said: "We are trying to raise aspirations of local people because Milton Keynes has great employment rates but it doesn't have a great uptake of science. Local companies can't find enough local skilled scientists and wanted to put some things together.

"We are trying to show off some of the great scientific things going on here - and everything we've got going on is related to Milton Keynes."

Developer plays down concerns over lack of infrastucture in 'eco town'

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THE developer at the helm of plans for an 'eco-town' near Milton Keynes says it would not drain the city's resources.

David Reavell, director of the firm behind proposals for 15,000 homes in Marston Vale, said the new carbon-neutral town would be self-sufficient and will fund its own infrastructure.

London-based OH Properties Ltd has put in a bid to the Government to place the development between Bedford and Milton Keynes.

The site, two thirds of which is owned by the developer, is less than one mile away from the proposed South East expansion area and within ten miles of the city centre.

As reported in MK NEWS previously, the council has raised concerns about the impact of the plans on the future growth of Milton Keynes and the strain on local infrastructure, such as on hospitals, water supplies, roads and transport links.

Mr Reavell said he believes these concerns are overplayed as OH Properties will have to prove, as a basic requirement of planning law, that the proposal does not drain surrounding infrastructure before the town could be built.

"Most of the facilities it needs will be provided as part of the development, such as schools, day surgeries, roads and transport connections, at our own expense," he said.

He added that the site should not divert Government funding away from the expansion areas of Milton Keynes as it should meet it's own infrastructure costs.

However, where people in Milton Keynes benefit from better transport links or other resources it would be reasonable for them to contribute.

He also contested Milton Keynes Council's protest that the town could threaten plans for the East-West rail, linking Milton Keynes with Oxford and Cambridge, by putting additional pressure on the line.

"I think it will enhance the business case for the line as it would increase its usage and we are proposing a new station at Liddlington as part of the development," he said.

The developers are currently holding a series of road shows across Marston Vale as part of the Government's second consultation since Gordon Brown announced the 'eco-town' proposals in July 2007.

None will be held in Milton Keynes as the plans are outside the council's boundaries.

The government is set to announce the winning bids in the new year.

If the Marston Vale proposal is successful OH Properties hope to submit a planning application in late 2009.

The Government hopes the first schemes will start to be built in 2010.

Gallaghers also submitted an overlapping bid for 7,000 houses in Marston Vale but this has been withdrawn.

HOLD ON: Laura gets to grips with instructor Nick Brown

All comers get their kicks at fight club

A MARTIAL arts champion is schooling the next top fighters in Milton Keynes, or those that just want to have some fun. MK NEWS reporter LAURA HANNAM went along to try out her grappling skills.

BY day Nick Brown dons a suit to work as a technician for Milton Keynes Council.

But like any respectable super-hero he leads a second life.

Nick has a list of titles in martial arts as well as a black belt in judo and third dan in karate and ju-jitsu.

His last professional fight was in 2003 and he now focuses on helping others learn and enjoy the sport.

In addition to offering one-to-one training, he runs a session at Stantonbury Leisure Centre on Thursday evenings.

He teaches a wide variety of martial arts and boxing including karate, ju-jitsu, practising, judo and Thai boxing.

His sessions attract people of all abilities from professional fighters to a 16-year-old girl and a man who has lost his sight due to diabetes.

A complete virgin to martial arts, I went along with MK NEWS sports reporter Simone Corgan to try it out.

We started with a five minute warm up involving shadow boxing before the class was split into pairs to practice the real thing.

Nick taught Simone and I several moves that would be useful on the street in self defence, such as ways to throw off someone who grabs your arm or ways to target an attacker's sensitive areas such as the eyes and groin.

He also showed us how to prevent over-powering people squashing your fingers in a handshake and how to hold someone in a choke.

We then moved on to working with boxing pads, when we both had the chance to let out some pent-up aggression.

Nick taught us good technique in hitting your opponent with a jab and a cross, a knee to the head and a blow to the body.

Simone particularly took to this and the fire in her eyes caused Nick to exclaim 'I wouldn't want to get between her and a sale!'

After half an hour the session turned to practising ju-jitsu.

We watched wide-eyed as 16-year-old Jodie Glassock, who has been coming to the club for ten months, pinned huge men to the ground.

This was certainly the hardest part of the class, but Nick showed us a few moves and ways to hold down your opponent or get out of a tight spot.

He explained that it is more about technique than strength.

The session ended with a team competition and a five minute warm down.

You do not need to aim to fight professionally to join the sessions as Nick, who has been teaching martial arts for 20 years, wants members of all abilities to enjoy the experience.

"Most people come to just enjoy the club and get fit," he said.

"There is a great atmosphere and a social side to it."

James Goldsworthy, from Bletchley, said he joined the club just under two years ago to get back in shape after losing his sight in December 2005, as he could no longer ride a mountain bike.

"It is good for fitness and for discipline," he said.

"There is a lot more to it that you think."

"I think I picked it up quite quickly as it is all based on close contact."

Jodie Glassock from Furzton, who attends Milton Keynes College, said as a young girl it is good to know she could defend herself if she needed to.

The sessions run from 7pm until 8.30pm on Thursday evenings and cost £6 each or £25 a month.

For more information call Nick on 07904 388883.

MKWeb scoops top accolade at awards

THE city's premier community information portal MKWeb has been officially named the UK's Community Website of the Year.

The accolade came at a gala awards evening staged to celebrate the best within digital media across the UK and Ireland.

The Advertising and Digital Media awards scheme was organised by the Newspaper Society.

The site pushed community websites published and run by the Lancashire Evening Post in Preston, and the Hull Daily Mail into second and third place.

MKWeb was launched a decade ago as part of a joint venture with Milton Keynes Council and this partnership remains a vital component of the community portal success today.

MKWeb is still part owned by the council.

The portal offers local community and charity groups free web space with training and support offered to ensure they can keep their own mini websites up to date. These community group websites have become an integral part of the main MKWeb site.

The depth of the community information is further enhanced through the help of more than 500 contributors who all play a direct part in keeping the content up-to-date.

MKWeb has been ranked in the Top 10 most visited community websites in the UK by Hitwise (SOCITIM Better Connected report) each year for the past five years.

The website is fully accessible and meets the WAI 'AA' standard.

The MKWeb brand is enhanced by the production and printing of the city's official Accommodation and Leisure Guide which also appears in electronic form on the website.

Andy Gough, managing director of the company that runs MKWeb, said: "We are delighted that the success of MK Web as a community information portal has been formally recognised through this prestigious award.

"The real winners of this award, however, are our partners and the army of contributors who help to make our site as rich and deep in terms of content as it is."

MKWeb attracts an average of more than 160,000 unique users per month and delivers 805,000 pages of information each month.

ADVERTORIAL

Welcome to the Team: Dr Akhtar

Milton Keynes Chiropractic Clinic in Fenny Stratford has gone from strength to strength since it was established over 3 ½ years ago. When asked why his clinic has become such a popular and successful clinic, the principal practitioner, Gary D Jackson, Doctor of Chiropractic, said the following.

"There are many reasons for our success, one of the most important reasons is the thorough level of professional training that all of the associates in my clinic have undergone. All our chiropractors are qualified to take and read x-rays, we have an x-ray suite on site at our clinic which avoids the need for unnecessary delays should x-rays be required. Our Chiropractors are trained in Orthopaedic and Neurological assessment procedures all on top of their chiropractic spinal training this ensures detailed assessments can be performed. Our practitioners are not therapists but 5 year fully trained Doctors of Chiropractic, we offer treatment unlike that available on the NHS in Milton Keynes and the vast majority of our patients find we offer solutions to problems they otherwise would have just learned to live with. Another factor our patients like is that their chiropractor will be the person to examine, x-ray (if necessary), diagnose and treat them. For the patient to have one person that deals with them, and not be passed to and from different people gives them great reassurance, peace of mind and continuity of care".

Gary, the official Chiropractor for the MK Dons football team led on to say "However, I feel the key factor is that we are passionate about what we do and take great pride in doing the best for our patients; that is absolutely crucial and I look for that with anyone who wishes to be based in my clinic; indeed I know this is more than the case with Nageena as I have known her for many years and am very pleased to have her join the team here, she will be an asset to the clinic, her patients and Milton Keynes".

Doctor of Chiropractic, Nageena Akhtar

Nageena has had an active interest in chiropractic for over 15 years and trained at the world renowned Anglo-European College of Chiropractic (AECC) for 5 years. She has recently joined the Milton Keynes Chiropractic Clinic in Fenny Stratford having been based in Aylesbury over the past prior few years.

Although 'back, neck, pelvis and limb pain', 'sciatica', 'disc and nerve problems', 'pins and needles', 'arthritic pain' and 'muscle problems' are all common problems that chiropractors are known to successfully treat, Nageena's clinical expertise runs broader than that. Since graduating she has studied numerous post graduate courses in Paediatrics (babies and children), sports chiropractic and medical acupuncture.

Nageena led on to say "These are particular areas of interest to me. The treatment of babies and children is always rewarding and they often respond very quickly to chiropractic treatment especially babies suffering from colic. Many parents are surprised as well as relieved when they see the results that chiropractic care for their children can bring, often commenting that 'if only they had been told about chiropractic sooner'".

Sports injuries and sports people, especially golfers, could benefit from chiropractic care, as Nageena has helped many improve their game and handicap with her sports chiropractic, she added " If you want to sleep well, get rid of pain or improve your game, give me a call".

BACK PAIN?

Painkillers and a sheet of exercises are not your only options

British Chiropractic Association

A large trial funded by the Medical Research Council in 1990 concluded that CHIROPRACTIC TREATMENT was 30% more effective than hospital outpatient management, mainly for patients with chronic or severe back pain. A follow up trial in 1995 confirmed patients with low back pain treated by Chiropractors derived more benefit and long term satisfaction than those treated by hospitals.

PROUD TO BE THE OFFICIAL CHIROPRACTOR FOR THE MK DONS FOOTBALL TEAM

MK DONS

Full steam ahead for Wolverton revamp

A multi million pound regeneration project in the historic rail town of Wolverton is close to completion. MK News reporter LAURA HANNAM went along to see how it looks.

THIS development would look perfectly at home among the fashionable factory conversions of London.

But while its high-rise balcony-dressed apartments look like they were carried over from the capital, Wolverton Park also enjoys some of the features typical of Milton Keynes.

Residents have a busy canal to walk down, more than two acres of park land and a Willen-style balancing lake in the centre of the community.

The development has moved on dramatically since our reporter visited in April 2007, when all that existed was three shells left behind from the railway sheds and locomotive works that were built in 1838 by the London and Birmingham Railway Company.

Now, walking through the restored doors into the shed which used to house the Royal Train, you are first struck by a towering entrance foyer with one of the original gantry cranes used to move the train high above your head.

The building houses an innovative indoor street setting made to look like a Victorian terrace and rooftop windows allowing natural light to pour in.

Each of the 31 houses has an open-plan ground floor flooded with light from one of the train shed's beautiful church-like windows.

The cast iron frames of the windows and the roof trusses have been restored and used as features in the properties. The bedrooms are built on a mezzanine, giving a breath-taking three-storey floor to ceiling view in the living area.

This definitely gives the houses a wow factor.

The former Triangular Building, where locomotive engines were built, has been transformed into an open-air street scene with shops and a mixture of 46 apartments, maisonettes and town houses.

The town houses have similar beautiful windows overlooking the canal and spiral staircases. The building was painted green to camouflage it during the Second World War, and the pale patches that remain are to be left to show its history.

The three-storey Reading Room, which provided educational facilities for railway employees, is likely to be sold to a gastro-pub and cafe, which will be accessible from Stratford Road through a beautiful glazed atrium and have tables outside overlooking the canal.

In the green area, the world's oldest football stand – restored to its former glory using a large percentage of its former frame – will take pride of place.

A further 223 new-build apartments have risen from the ground and all the homes will be serviced by a full-time concierge.

Wolverton Park development uses original railworks windows and doors

A multi-storey car park has been constructed behind the apartments to block the sound from the railway.

Plus almost every one of the 300 properties looks out over the park or the canal.

The £46 million project, by Places for People, should be finished early next year.

Project director Ian Troughton said the build had gone well despite complications caused by the age of the site and two wet summers.

He said the aim was not to construct simply a block of apartments, but to develop a sustainable community.

It all lies within 10.5 acres of land, including 2,500 square metres of cultural and heritage space, and is built using green technologies including solar panels and a wind turbine.

Around 30 per cent of the homes will be affordable housing, with 15 available for social rented accommodation, and 75 for shared ownership. The affordable homes will be peppered in among the others.

Homes are a mix of one, two and three-bedroom apartments, duplexes and town houses, starting at £150,000.

The new open-plan ground floor is a feature in the houses

Secondary school tsar to help with applications

HELP is now at hand for parents and carers with any questions about transferring their children from primary to secondary schools in Milton Keynes.

Jane Cliff, the city's first independent School Choice Adviser, is available to help parents and carers with any problems they may have filling in the application forms to get their Years 5 and 6 children into the secondary school of their choice ahead of the November 17 deadline.

Jane is there to help anyone who may be daunted by the transfer system; needs help filling in the forms, or may have only recently moved into the area and needs information about the schools in the city.

She said: "As a parent, I understand that these times can be stressful.

"My eldest daughter, after a period of illness, needed to move to a more local school and I would have found the opportunity to talk to a friendly voice invaluable.

"I am looking forward to being able to help support parents who are having difficulty with any part of this process for whatever reason. I am also there to give them realistic expectations that their children will not automatically get into the school of their choice."

> As a parent, I understand that these times can be stressful. My eldest daughter needed to move to a more local school and I would have found the opportunity to talk to a friendly voice invaluable
> – School Choice Advisor Jane Cliff

All parents and carers of children in Year 6 in Milton Keynes have been sent an application via their primary school, about their choice of secondary school.

Jane is available to give free, impartial advice about schools' differing admission policies and oversubscription criteria, as well as how to fill out the application form correctly.

Drop-in sessions have been arranged for anyone who would like to meet Jane on Friday, October 17 from 2pm to 4pm, and Monday, November 10 from 2pm to 4pm at the Galley Hill Education Centre, Galley Hill, Stony Stratford, MK11 1PA.

To book a session either call Jane on 01908 253514 or email choiceadvice@mkparents.org

Participating schools ranged from pre-preparatory and nursery to senior schools, single sex and co-educational, day and boarding schools.

This year's exhibition was organised by Milton Keynes Preparatory School.uk.

New chapter for Reading Champions

BROOKSWARD School in Neath Hill has come runner-up in a national competition run by the National Literacy Trust.

The competition was for the Reading Champions School of the year – and a group of 15 boys won £250 to spend on books for boys.

Reading Champions is a project set up by the NLT to promote reading among boys and men.

In order to win the prize the school had to show the impact that Reading Champions had had on the school.

Last week the boys – now in Year 6 – went to Waterstones in order to spend the £250 prize money – buying a range of books for year 3 and 4 boys. The boys have decided to start a Year 3 and 4 reading.

'Lost youth' films a study into student behaviour

STUDENTS have been filmed under-age drinking and causing criminal damage at school.

But the 'crimes' were all in name of art.

Pupils at Stantonbury Campus have produced and starred in a series of three 'lost youth' films.

The series looks at anti-social behaviour in today's society and has been produced in partnership with the Safer Communities Anti-Social Behaviour (ASB) Team.

Other discussion points introduced are peer pressure, arson, knife crime and respect.

The films will premiered on Tuesday, October 14 at Stantonbury Campus Theatre.

The project has been funded by Stantonbury Campus, the Community Safety Partnership, the Safer Communities Unit, Thames Valley Police and Buckinghamshire Fire and Rescue Service.

New leaflet reveals all about the work of Milton Keynes Partnership

THE city's regeneration agency has produced a leaflet to explain what it does.

The leaflet, called 'Who we are and what we do', explains the work of Milton Keynes Partnership (MKP), highlights achievements of the past year and gives details of future plans.

It encourages local people to get more involved in its work.

The partnership was created in June 2004 and is responsible for growth, development and investment in the new city.

Ann Limb (pictured), chair of Milton Keynes Partnership Committee, said: "We've produced this leaflet so that people in Milton Keynes will have a better understanding of our role and can be more easily engaged in helping shape the work we do for the new city.

"We hope that it provides a useful summary of our activities as well as showing how to get more involved with us and to obtain more information about what we do and how we benefit the community."

Copies of the leaflet are available from the offices of MKP and Milton Keynes Council as well as from libraries and the development information sites in the-centre:mk, Midsummer Place, Xscape and Milton Keynes Central railway station.

Leaflets can also be picked up from the Discover MK shop, the City Discovery Centre, Jury's Inn, the Ramada Encore Hotel and Milton Keynes Chamber of Commerce.

An online version can be viewed at www.miltonkeynespartnership.info.

Wrighty's owner in the wrong

A BLETCHLEY woman faces punishment in court after failing to take her sick dog to the vets.

Sharon Roy, 41, of Menteith Close, admitted one charge at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court on Friday.

When RSPCA inspectors visited her home they found her pet dog, Wrighty, suffering from a chronic skin condition.

Roy accepted that she failed to provide the protected animal with the necessary veterinary care.

She will be sentenced later this month.

Christmas card alternative

AS Christmas approaches are you dreading writing endless cards for work colleagues?

A local hospice for terminally ill children has found a way to take away the burden by producing one giant card for everyone to sign.

With Keech Cottage Children's Hospice's 'Share A Card' scheme, the huge cards can be displayed on a notice board or in a communal area at a group or company alongside a supplied donation box and people are invited to sign in return for a donation to the hospice.

Over 200 local companies, schools and groups took part last year, raising over £3,000.

This year, the Share A Card has been designed by children and their siblings at the hospice.

To request a card call Sue Clarke on 01582 497849 or email sclarke@pasque.org.

RETURN MISSION: Shaun Cunningham pictured visiting the orphange in Dar es Salaam in 2006

Firefighters turn knights

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A FIREFIGHTER from Bletchley is to answer a call for help in Africa.

Watch manager Shaun Cunningham, who works at Bletchley Fire Station, is to pass his specialist knowledge and skills to his counterparts in Tanzania and Kenya.

He will travel the round trip of 8,500 miles with crew manager Mark Boxall, from Aylesbury.

The pair will spend three weeks helping train members of Knight Support, which provides a fire and rescue service in Dar es Salaam in Tanzania and in Nairobi, the capital city of Kenya.

Knight Support was set up nine years ago and relies to a large extent on goodwill donations of vehicles, equipment and expertise from the UK.

Mr Cunningham, who has taken part in similar expeditions to Dar es Salaam in 2006 and Nairobi in 2007, said: "We will be covering best practice and basic training with them, as well as helping them in specialist areas such as extrication – releasing injured people who are trapped in vehicles after collisions – and using breathing apparatus.

"It is fantastic to be able to help brigades in other countries where the opportunities for training are not as advanced as they are here.

"Because of this the firefighters who take part are very eager to learn and take on board all the information very quickly."

In Dar es Salaam they will also visit a disabled children's orphanage to hand over a £413 donation – £113 collected at Bletchley Fire Station's open day in September and £300 donated by a member of Shaun's family – which will go towards repairing the roof.

Highly valued

Thames Valley Police is looking for confident, level-headed people to join the Force as Special Constables.

They must be reliable, honest, calm in stressful circumstances and able to communicate well with all communities in Thames Valley.

Unpaid

Special Constables are volunteers. People give their time for a variety of reasons; to give something back to the community, to gain vital life skills and experience or as a stepping stone to becoming a full-time officer.

NEW ORDER (ALBUMS)

MOVEMENT
POWER, CORRUPTION AND LIES
LOW-LIFE
BROTHERHOOD TECHNIQUE

There seems to be an unwritten law forbidding the release of a proper New Order retrospective.

See, here's the problem – all of New Order's albums are available on CD, and that's great, especially in the case of these five gems.

Unfortunately, New Order had a habit of keeping their singles entirely separate from the albums and, as New Order's glory days were coming to an end just as the CD single made its bow, there are a lot of songs that have still to be taken off the big black discs and etched into little silver discs.

I'll give you a guided tour of the remastered albums and show you what I mean.

Let's start with Movement, then. It's New Order's most under-rated album and I love it. It's bleak (as you'd expect if your lead singer had just topped himself), but there's a wonderful electronic spaced out atmosphere that covers the entire album.

The bonus disc covers the singles that came out during 1981 and 1982 and in contrast, they sound very different. The album is New Order trying to shake off its past and the singles are New Order making gradual steps forward by experimenting with electronics.

Next, we come to Power, Corruption And Lies. It's more like the band we know, but for some reason I've never quite been able to get into it, although 586 and the interlude that leads into it are good fun. The bonus disc here is OK, but there's only one hard to find track – the original version of Confusion, easily one of their worst singles. They should've left off Blue Monday, which is everywhere anyway, and chuck on Video 5-8-6 instead in all its 22 minute glory.

Low-life is next and this is, without question, their finest album. It's poppy but there are still flashes of darkness here and there. However, the extra tracks make it even better. I'd always thought that if Low-life had contained the full 12ins version of The Perfect Kiss it'd be a nigh on perfect album, so they've only gone and obliged. Happy days!

Again there are tracks missing that could've or should've been included, like the exclusive (and excellent) remix of Sub-Culture that came free with Record Mirror.

Brotherhood (guitars one side, dancing the other) has been given a nice new cover.

The original LP ends with Every Little Counts, which gradually gets more insane until it's suddenly interrupted by a record scratching to mark the end of the album. Best-Album-Ending-EVER.

Having State Of The Nation start immediately afterwards ruins the effect, however points are re-awarded for including Evil Dust, which appeared on a CD-V for True Faith. Unfortunately, they're taken off again straight afterwards, because True Dub isn't True Dub, it's a completely different remix.

Finally, Technique. There's another single that should've been (Vanishing Point) and one that shouldn't (Round And Round), but the real treat is on the bonus disc.

Run 2 has taken 19 years to get released on CD, but it got there in the end.

However, I do have an issue with the sound quality. I thought I could hear occasional clicks on one or two songs as if they'd been recorded off the original vinyls.

There's a fair amount of stuff missing (the 1982 Hacienda flexidisc and the 7ins B-sides for starters).

They're great albums, but the new editions could've been so much better.

FILM REVIEW: TAKEN (15)

YOU might think it's a glamorous and easy life being a French kidnapper, but let me tell you that is far from the truth.

There we were looking to steal some middle-aged Irish bloke's daughter and make some easy money and it ends up going horribly wrong.

That was our first mistake.

Then it gets worse when this guy gets really angry about it and threatens to kill us if we don't give her back tres quickly.

Now being professional kidnappers and all we don't take his threats too seriously and continue about our evil work.

That was our second mistake.

Mon dieu if this guy doesn't turn out to be some high level ex-secret service agent who's an expert in knocking people off in all kinds of nasty ways.

He has the nerve to hunt us all down and make mincemeat out of us with his secret agenty skills and of course we are really not happy about the situation whatsoever.

So the upshot is that this Irish guy kills the lot of us and saves his daughter and gets all the credit whereas all we get is killed, and now I'm dead and I can tell you for one that I am really fed up about it.

So if you would like to watch this mediocre and very violent story charting our unhappy failure unfold, then I believe that it is showing in your local cinema as we speak.

Feel Grrrrreat in the Great Outdoors

GARDENING, growing veggies, kite flying and wildlife conservation tasks – being outdoors is not only great fun it can keep you healthy too!

Health experts across the UK are recognizing Green Exercise as being one of the most beneficial ways of increasing people's physical and mental wellbeing.

It includes gentle walking, cycling, outdoor games and conservation activities and can help people to improve their levels of physical activity, reduce stress, improve sleep, and help us to concentrate and think more clearly.

People lead increasingly sedentary lifestyles – driving to work, sitting at a desk all day, driving to the supermarket, watching TV or surfing the net.

However being healthy needn't be a chore and you don't have to give up everything you enjoy and become an athlete to feel the benefits. It can be as easy as feeding the ducks, meeting up with friends for a walk or simply learning a new skill – like growing vegetables, flying a kite or discovering more about wildlife.

In fact the best way to get healthy is by having fun – and your local parks are made for it.

Here in Milton Keynes over 20 per cent of the city is made up of parks and green space and The Parks Trust has started an innovative new project called Get Active in Milton Keynes to help people get their Green Exercise programme started.

The project, run in partnership with Milton Keynes' Primary Care Trust and funded by Natural England, includes a series of activities to encourage people to get fit and feel the benefits of being outdoors, enjoying fresh-air and getting closer to nature.

The sessions will include community gardening, learning how to grow food, organising family days and activities, and providing opportunities to help wildlife through conservation activities.

Julie Webb, Active Parks Coordinator at The Parks Trust, said: "Our parks and green spaces provide a brilliant opportunity for having fun whilst at the same time improving your health and wellbeing.

"We want to make visiting the park part of people's everyday activities and an experience that they truly enjoy and want to repeat again and again."

If you'd like to join any of the Green Exercise activities or you work with a group who might benefit from enjoying the parks in Milton Keynes please contact Julie Webb on 01908 233600 or visit www.theparkstrust.com

THE GRANGE

Dunthorne Way, Grange Farm.
01908 340607
Reviewed by Laura Hannam

The Grange offers far more than your average curry.

The restaurant has a modern menu offering first class Indian and Bangladeshi food made fresh to order.

All this is provided in a classy environment with curvy decor that would appeal to the professionals that live in the surrounding new estate and across Milton Keynes.

Owner Mahim Uddin asked us what kind of food we enjoy and offered to choose the best off the menu for us.

I told him I like mild, creamy dishes with lamb and my guest prefers more spicy meals with prawn.

For starters Mr Uddin brought me tandoori lamp chops (£3.95) and my guest king prawn puri (£4.95), which had a tasty, spicy sauce and was wrapped in a kind of pancake.

Both the dishes were well presented with delicate portions that would be at home in a posh French restaurant.

The lamb was tender and the flavour deliciously strong and herby.

For the main course I had the Mumbai Mango with lamb (£9.95), a creamy curry infused with almond with huge slices of mango, which worked stunningly well with the meat.

As someone who is wimpy about spicy foods and tends to play it safe, it was great to try something new and was the best dish I have eaten in an Indian restaurant.

My guest had the king prawn rezella (£10.95), a medium spiced curry with mushrooms and bhindi.

Our meal was accompanied with rice with lovely button mushrooms (£2.95), basmati pilau rice (£1.95) peshwari naan bread (£2.50) and spinach with vegetarian cheese (£2.95).

To finish we had melon and liquorice sweets.

All of the food was fresh and delicious and the service friendly. I would certainly recommend giving The Grange a try.

Taylors launch new 'Help to Buy' initiative for local customers

Taylors the region's top estate agents have unveiled Help to Buy, a new initiative designed to provide advice and information to help local homeowners and first time buyers access the property ladder and make the most of current market conditions.

Help to Buy packs offer guidance on the moving process, including information on how to boost your borrowing potential, with details on a variety of schemes that are geared towards helping more buyers and sellers move up the property ladder.

Matthew Giggs Regional Manager, said: "The Help to Buy pack is an essential information tool that has been created to help customers overcome boundaries in the property market – it's a helping hand to make the whole process as easy as possible."

The initiative also includes specialist mortgage advice from one of the UK's largest mortgage brokers, Countrywide Mortgage Services, who are available across Taylors network of 34 branches.

In a bid to assist more first time buyers, the Help to Buy packs include information on initiatives like the Vendor Gifted Deposit Scheme*, whereby vendors fund 5% deposits on their homes - ideal for any buyer who does not have the up front deposit expected by mortgage lenders.

The Help to Buy initiative also provides practical assistance, such as advice on budgeting, with hints and tips to help customers better understand their affordability needs, covering key topics like mortgage repayments, current council tax rates and gas, electricity and water utility bills.

Matthew Giggs said: "Peace of mind comes from avoiding nasty surprises and our staff can guide you through the whole process of owning your own home from start to finish... and don't forget there is no charge for this service."

In a move away from 'traditional mortgages' the Help to Buy pack includes information on mortgage schemes like First Start*, which helps customers combine their borrowing power with their parents, who act as 'sponsors' to boost the amount the lender can loan to them. This can substantially increase a buyer's purchasing power and open up a variety of options when searching for a new home.

For those hoping to apply for a shared equity loan and access local funding, Help to Buy provides an overview on a new range of government My Choice HomeBuy schemes. Countrywide Consultants can help you find out more about the schemes available through your local housing association.

Matthew Giggs added: "Mortgage schemes promoted through Help to Buy are available for a limited time and will change as the market picks up. To find out more pop into your local Taylors branch and pick up a Help to Buy pack."

Taylors is a trusted industry leader, with more than 30 years experience throughout Beds, Bucks, Cambs, Herts, Northants and Oxon. Call your local Taylors office or 01908 632000 to arrange an appointment with one of our qualified mortgage consultants.

Scottish bank joins Dons as club's Founder Partner

MILTON Keynes Dons Football Club has announced a new partnership with finance specialists Clydesdale Bank.

Clydesdale has become the club's Founder Partner, as part of an agreement which will run for five years starting with the 2008/09 season.

In confirming the deal, Dons' chairman Pete Winkelman said: "I'm delighted to announce our partnership with Clydesdale – a company with strong links in the Milton Keynes business community and a strong association with football nationally through their sponsorship of the Scottish Premier League.

"We welcome their experience and enthusiasm and feel they will undoubtedly be a valuable partner as the Club seeks to progress."

The partnership with MK Dons will see Clydesdale branding grace some of stadiummk's state-of-the-art conference facilities including the newly-titled, 1,000-capacity Clydesdale Bank Ballroom and its complimenting, pitch-facing Clydesdale Bank Lounge.

Mark Bradbury, managing partner for Clydesdale's Milton Keynes Financial Solutions Centre, said: "We're a successful bank, we believe in what Pete Winkelman and his team are doing here, it's a great advert for the city of Milton Keynes and we want to be very much part of that.

Pitching in: James Parkinson (head of partnerships, MK Dons), Mark Bradbury (managing partner, Clydesdale Bank), Roberto Di Matteo (manager, MK Dons), David Mills (partner, Clydesdale Bank)

"The stadium is superb, the best I've ever been to and one of the major attractions for us. It's a development typical of Milton Keynes."

James Parkinson, head of partnerships for MK Dons, said: "It's fantastic to welcome Clydesdale Bank as Club Partners, a strategic joining that will benefit both parties.

"The fact that they are a relatively new company to Milton Keynes and they are already embracing the city's new football cub is a positive step forward to bringing top flight football to Milton Keynes, something that every person involved at the club is working towards. We greatly appreciate their support and look forward to a positive working relationship."

Top rating for Pinnacle office and retail centre

A MAJOR new city centre development has been given an 'excellent' rating.

The Pinnacle, the landmark new office and retail scheme being built on Midsummer Boulevard has received an 'excellent' rating from the BREEAM Offices environmental assessment scheme.

This makes it the first office building in Central Milton Keynes to receive this award.

John Lewis, chief executive of Milton Keynes Partnership, said: "BREEAM's 'Excellent' rating is extremely difficult to get so this is a great achievement for the developers Hampton Brook and recognises that The Pinnacle is an outstanding development that reaches very high quality standards."

BREEAM is recognised as the world's most widely used environmental assessment method for buildings.

In achieving its 'excellent' rating The Pinnacle scored highly in a number of areas from energy efficiency measures to access to public transport and its provision of secure cycle storage and changing facilities.

The Pinnacle, which will be connected to the Milton Keynes Combined Heat and Power (CHP) Network, optimises its use of power to minimise its carbon footprint.

In addition to the efficient layout of accommodation, environmentally friendly features of the building include thermally-efficient glazing, good natural lighting, energy -efficient lighting and air conditioning based on absorption chillers served by the CHP network.

Scheduled for completion in spring 2009, the Pinnacle will provide 18,600 sq m of office space as well as 1,100 sq m of retail space.

It is the largest office development in Milton Keynes for over 25 years and occupies a prime location within the city's central business district.

MKBUSINESSBRIEFS

Website marks anniversary

IT'S happy 25th birthday to one Old Wolverton company.

Quantitech, the specialist environmental instrumentation company, is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year.

To mark the event, Quantitech has launched a new website providing customers with far greater detail on the technologies that apply to different environmental monitoring applications and provide instrumentation users with the ability to subscribe to regular news updates on environmental instrumentation.

Quantitech's two founding directors, Keith Golding (MD) and Jim Monaghan (technical director) still run the company today in conjunction with Dominic Duggan (sales director) who spent 10 years with the company from 1985 and rejoined four years ago.

Mr Duggan said: "Quantitech's longevity is based on the company's focus on the sale and service of leading edge environmental instrumentation; over our 25 year history we are proud to have launched many instruments that have become market leaders and by continuing to focus on our core areas of expertise, we are looking forward to another successful 25 years"

New salesman regulations

THE council is cracking down on door-to-door salesmen.

Traders must now give buyers a seven day cooling off period and more cancellation rights following new regulations that come into force this month.

Trading Standards at Milton Keynes Council say that new regulations will cover contracts made during both solicited visits (visits made at the consumer's request) and unsolicited visits by traders.

The visits could take place in the consumer's home or workplace, or another individual's home, or on an excursion organised by the trader away from the trader's business premises in the UK.

Certain exceptions may apply.

Failure to provide the written notice is a criminal offence and could attract a fine of up to £5000.

Milton Keynes businesses can call the Trading Standards business advice line on 01908 252504 or e-mail tsd@milton-keynes.gov.uk for further advice.

Skype types are getting the message

INSTANT messaging is now the most common method for an office gossip, according to a recent study.

After monitoring more than 100,000 hours of employee computer usage, Orthus Limited research documented a dramatic rise in the usage of instant messaging (IM) applications such as Yahoo, MSN and Skype as well as social networking sites such as Facebook, Bebo and Plaxo.

The research also identified that the content of these communications was overwhelmingly personal in nature.

The analysis identified that

■ Sixty two per cent of IM connections were made between employees on the same company on the same network.

■ Eighty-six per cent of content identified in IM applications was personal in nature.

Unsurprisingly, the findings also showed virtually all of the information uploaded to social network sites by employees was personal and non work related.

"The research plainly proves that the ritual of gossiping around the coffee machine has evolved," said Richard Hollis, managing director of Orthus.

"While e-mail was once the primary unregulated medium over which employees were exchanging confidential information in the office without their bosses listening in, this is no longer the case.

"Users are well aware that monitoring of corporate e-mail is now commonplace and are a step ahead of the controls."

Researchers found IM traffic among co-workers ranging from gossip and complaints about work conditions to corporate management and share prices.

The study also found that IM applications were routinely used in companies that specifically prohibited them.

Mr Hollis added: "Users quickly learn which policies are enforced and which are not and find the right technology to bypass controls that are in place. Also very few policies actually consider basic human behaviour such as our need to communicate or tell a story – particularly those addressing the use of IM and social network sites."

The research was compiled through the use of software agents on end points, servers and terminal servers.

The software visually recorded evidence of unauthorised activity and its content.

Invitation to Tender for Carers Service through a Carers Centre

Luton Borough Council and partner agencies are developing a new Carers Centre and invite tenders from organisations with experience and a good track record in supporting informal carers to provide this Service.

In Luton we aim to ensure carers are effectively supported through the provision of integrated and personalised services. The Carers Centre will provide and coordinate a range of core services including information/advice, emotional support, advocacy, lifelong learning, support and consultation groups, publicity, promotion and awareness raising of carers issues and services. There will be additional scope for the selected provider to bid for specific services for carers over and above these core functions of the Carers Centre.

An initial contract of three years will be offered, commencing from 1st April 2009, with provision in advance of this date for the costs of preparations to launch the service to be met.

Applications are therefore invited from suitably qualified and experienced Service Providers who wish to be considered for this service. Initially applicants are requested to complete a questionnaire that is available from the contact address below. Final date for requests to participate is 27th October 2008 and final date for receipt of completed questionnaires is 12 noon on the 3rd November 2008.

Conditions of Advertising LSN Media (the publisher)

GENERAL

1. The publisher reserves the right to omit or suspend any advertisement even though accepted and paid for and to make any alterations necessary to maintain standards of the newspaper. The publisher also declines responsibility for the omission of a single advertisement or one or more of a series of advertisements from any cause whatsoever, nor do they accept liability for any loss or damage caused by an error or inaccuracy in the printing of an advertisement. (Advertisers are advised to check their advertisement after the insertion). No re-insertions refund or adjustment will be made where an error, mis-print or omission does not materially detract from the advertisement. The Publisher may at its sole discretion re-insert the whole or part of the advertisement with corrections or refund part or the whole value of the advertisement.
2. The publisher reserves the right to decline any advertisement without giving an explanation or which they deem the content unsuitable for publication, whether an order has been accepted or not. The publisher will not accept orders for advertisements which it deems offensive or defamatory or which infringe the Trades Description Act 1968 and The British Code of Advertising Standards Authority on such matters.
3. An order for advertising services placed by an advertiser or an advertising agency on behalf of an advertiser constitutes an assurance that necessary authorisation or permission has been granted in respect of the use of the advertisement itself, pictorial representation of a living person, references made and words attributed to a living person and text which may be the subject of copyright protection.
4. Printed conditions on advertisement orders will not be recognised as binding unless expressly accepted in writing by the publishers.
5. Advertising rates involving a series, volume or prepayment discount are expressly for the use of the advertiser concerned and are not to divulged to a third party.
6. All artwork designed by the LSN Studio remains the property of LSN Media. Where artwork services are provided, it is on the understanding that it is for the sole use in any of the LSN Media publications unless prior agreement is sought, any unauthorised reproduction will result in a charge being levied on the publisher concerned.
7. Proofs of advertisements are provided upon request but cannot be guaranteed. Where a proof is supplied, the onus is on the recipient to check that all information is correct and to provide the publisher with any necessary alterations or amendments before the expiration of the deadline. The publisher will not accept responsibility for errors in any advertisement where a proof is supplied and subsequently authorised for publication.
8. Although every effort will be made to meet advertisers requirements, specified positions cannot be guaranteed within the newspaper.
9. All advertisements which carry a premium telephone number must comply with the Code of Practice of The Independent Committee for the supervision of Standards of Telephone Information Services (CSTIS).
10. The advertiser (or his advertising agency) shall indemnify the publisher in respect of all costs, damages or any other charges as the result of legal action or the threat of legal action arising from the publisher of a single advertisement for a series of advertisements, published in accordance with copy instructions supplied to the publisher in pursuance of the advertiser or his advertising agency's order.
11. If an advertisement does not appear due to copy or artwork being supplied after the agreed deadline, the space will be payable in full at the published rates.
12. A request to insert an advertisement assumes acceptance of our Terms & Conditions of Advertising.

DISTRIBUTION

1. Unless otherwise stated, distribution will normally take place within the specified publication to the individual addresses which usually receive the publication within the area and on the date scheduled. This does not necessarily imply 100% delivery to all addresses within the area.
2. The publisher shall not be liable for total or partial non delivery of any publication in which an advertisement is scheduled to appear and no reinsertion, refund or adjustment will be made to the advertiser.

BOX NUMBERS

While every endeavour will be made to forward replies to box numbers to the advertiser as soon as possible, no liability will be accepted by the publisher in respect of any loss, damage or delay in forwarding such replies.

CANCELLATION

1. Cancellation of advertisements must be advised 24 hours prior to the booking deadline. If the publisher is unable to resell the space he reserves the right to charge for any loss of revenue incurred.
2. If any advertiser in receipt of a series, volume or prepayment discount cancels before fulfilling the terms of the agreed order, the publisher reserves the right to make a surcharge up to the full published rates for the type of advertisement.
3. Queries concerning cancelled advertisements must be accompanied by the stop number given at the time of cancellation.

PAYMENT

1. Credit facilities are at the discretion of the publisher, but such facilities are limited to strict terms of 30 days. Late payment of account may lead to suspension of account facilities. Any discount which the publisher may have agreed with the advertiser may be forfeit should the advertiser fail to meet the agreed credit terms.
2. Prepaid accounts must be settled by no later than the two days prior to publication. The publisher reserves the right to suspend any advertisement where payment has not been received.
3. Dishonoured cheques will incur a £20 administration fee. All rates are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time of any advertisement is booked to appear. Recognised advertising agency is 10%

PREVIEWS

CARLISLE UTD
League One
Saturday, October 11
stadiummk KO 12.15pm

AN early kick-off for the game which is televised live on SkySports.
But the Dons are still expected to draw in the crowds for the lunch time match due to their kids for a quid promotion.
They may also have a few more faces through the turnstiles with fans hoping that the Dons can pick up where they left off at Millwall.
The Dons' record at home is hit and miss at best.
Their four league matches at stadiummk have resulted in two victories and two defeats in a win, loss, win, loss pattern.
However, it appears to be a good time to face Carlisle as they have lost four on the bounce and conceded eight in the process.
Carlisle have only kept one clean sheet in League One this season compared to the Dons' four.
It could be the tail of two strikers on Saturday as Danny Graham goes head-to-head with Sam Baldock.
Graham, a Middlesborough trainee, has seven goals in ten appearances for the Cumbrians while Baldock has seven in 11.
Both sides were in action last night in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy so tired legs will be no excuse for the either team.

"NO one likes us, no one likes us, we don't care…" rang out from all four stands at the New Den but MK Dons will have earned some admirers by beating Millwall 4-0 on their own turf.

The Lions were comprehensively defeated by old Chelsea favourite Roberto Di Matteo and his MK army.

Ever impressive Sam Baldock took his goal tally up to seven in all competitions while Sean O'Hanlon and an own goal by Lions' skipper Paul Robinson tilted the game heavily in the Dons' favour.

Kenny Jackett was struck by the curse of the manager of the month award as his Lions lost for the first time in five league games.

While the praise will fall on the shoulders of the goal scorers it must be noted that Di Matteo's newest additions to the squad were on song in the dominant performance.

Miguel Angle Llera was ruthless at the back while Luke Chadwick, on a three-month loan from Norwich City, was always a live wire down the left.

Chadwick has not played a competitive football match in six months but looked at home on the flank for the Dons.

Injury has robbed the former Manchester United trainee of making the impact in football that had been expected of him but should the 27-year-old stay fit it could prove to be a shrewd signing by Di Matteo.

Chadwick's intelligent eye for a pass led to Baldock's first in the game but not before Sean O'Hanlon had netted the opener from Peter Leven's corner.

Had Lewis Grabban equalised on the 23rd minute he may have changed Millwall's fortunes.

However, Willy Gueret, a former Millwall goalie who passed a late fitness test to feature, was a full stretch to keep out Grabban's volley.

Chris Hackett's set-pieces were the only other threat provided by Millwall with front duo Gary Alexander and Gifton Noel-Williams starved of opportunities.

Noel-Williams' performance would have done little to make Di Matteo reconsider his decision not to offer the striker a contract after a trial period with the Dons.

Into first-half stoppage time Chadwick's defence splitting pass fed Baldock who rounded 'keeper David Forde for a 2-0 cushion at half-time.

For fifteen minutes Millwall pressurised with no end product then in a mix-up at the back for the Lions Ali Gerba forced Paul Robinson to pass to his 'keeper only to watch as the ball hit the net.

It was an unfortunate mistake by the Lions skipper and one that all but ended their comeback.

That honour was left to Baldock when he capitalised on Mark Wright's shot falling off the crossbar and into his path for a simple tap-in.

The Lions' Den presented Di Matteo with his biggest win of the season.

MK Dons under-18s recorded their first win of the season at home to Bristol City.

Goals from Daniel Delderfield and Charlie Collins were enough to beat Bristol 2-0 at Woughton-on-the-Green.

Having seen plenty of positive performances but little in terms of results boss Mike Dove was delighted for his Dons to get the winless monkey off their back.

He said: "Other weeks we have played brilliantly and perhaps not got the result we deserve, but they battled hard and fully merit that win."

"The wind was difficult in the second half and they changed their shape moving to three up front but the boys at the back were superb and the whole team showed great character here and I'm very proud of them."

TWO Dons players have been named in the League One Team of the Week.

Defenders Sean O'Hanlon and Shaun Cummings have both been selected in the divisional best eleven following the Dons' 4-0 hammering of Millwall.

It is the second time O'Hanlon has been selected while Cummings, on loan from Chelsea, makes his first appearance.

Team of the Week in full:

Joe Lewis (Peterborough), Mark Little (Northampton), Sean O'Hanlon (MK Dons), Izzy Iriekpen (Scunthorpe), Shaun Cummings (MK Dons), Scott Murray (Cheltenham), Matt Oakley (Leicester), Michael Raynes (Stockport), Chris Taylor (Oldham), Joel Porter (Hartlepool), Simon Cox (Swindon).

DEAN Lewington proved he's a popular boy as he scooped the title of Johnstone's Paint Trophy's Favourite Number Three.

Dons fans in their thousands voted for left-back and was last night presented a magnum of champagne by supporter Kieran McGowan.

The competition, run to celebrate the third year of Johnstone's Paint's sponsorship of the Football League Trophy, saw 76 per cent of voters choose Lewington.

The 24-year-old Dons skipper said: "I'm delighted to have received so many votes so a big thank-you to all the Dons supporters that logged on and voted for me.

"The Johnstone's Paint Trophy is obviously a competition that means a lot to the club after winning it last season so to be recognised in this way is great."

BASKETBALL

GUILDFORD HEAT 81 (Jones 22, Williams 17, McKnight 14)
MARSHALL MK LIONS 76 (Brown 23, New 18, McNally 10)

A FIRST defeat of the season knocked MK Lions off the top of the table.

It was a contrasting day as Guildford Heat earned their first win in the British Basketball League this term.

Heat came storming out of the blocks and made MK Lions pay for a sluggish start.

Dean Williams netted six points in an 10-0 burst in the first period although the Lions did respond with their own 12-6 run through Tommie Eddie, Mike New and Yorick Williams to pull the score back to within four points at 18-12.

The Lions worked on their defence in the second quarter and though Carl McNally and Robert Youngblood were struggling with 'flu, they were able to pin back the points.

Terrell Brown, the top scorer with 23 points, and New were in bullish mood as the Lions took the lead for the first time in the game but then lost Williams to a back injury with three minutes remaining.

Simon Emmerson joined Brown and New in their point scoring mood as MK hit 30 points in the quarter to take a 38-42 advantage at half-time.

The Lions failed to learn from their earlier errors when they allowed Heat to re-establish a good lead.

Dru Spinks scored for the Lions, as did New but they only hit 12 in the quarter which gave Heat a healthy 64-54 advantage.

A Brown three pointer started the fourth and Eddie spun inside for two to edge the Lions back.

Then a three pointer from Williams brought Lions with three but Heat netted their final ten points from the free-throw line to secure a 81-76 victory.

Lions are now in joint fourth place and will need to return to their best if they are to beat Newcastle Eagles, the side that pipped them to the play-off championship.

■ MK Lions are at home to Newcastle Eagles on Friday. Tip-off at the Bletchley Leisure Centre is at 7.30pm.

Wycombe walk over Bletchley

LOCAL RUGBY

SOUTH WEST 2 EAST

BLETCHLEY fell to sixth place in the league following a ten point defeat to High Wycombe.

After failing to make possession count Bletchley paid the price for their infringements at the ruck and for straying offside as the referee reduced them to 14 men for ten minutes.

Wycombe opted for the posts to take a slender three point lead.

Another penalty in the host's favour exposed gaps in the Bletchley defence as Wycombe's quick hands saw them dive over the line.

A route back into the game appeared when a Wycombe player was yellow carded for illegal play at the breakdown resulting in lock Tom Sothcott scoring his first try for the club.

Phil Harman made up for his missed conversion when he nailed an enormous drop goal in the second half to level the score at 8-8.

Wycombe came back to life as they benefited from an ambitious wide pass by Bletchley which Kai MacFarlane scooped to score Wycombe's second try.

The conversion and penalty won Wycombe the game at 18-8.

OLNEY returned to winning way to Henley Wanderers.

On the back of two defeats Olney pulled the performance they needed out of the bag to return home with a 31-18 victory.

They opened an early lead when Chris Parnham spotted a gap to put Olney ahead 7-0 with Richard James converting.

A penalty and a controversial try nudged Henley 8-7 in front until a kick from James ahead by a point.

The lead exchanged hands again at the restart when Henley converted a penalty and their advantage was made greater when the Henley centre crossed over for a converted try.

But Henley lost their flanker to a yellow card and Olney ran in two tries with James converting his own and James Padfield's to give them an 18-31 victory.

The game ended on a sour note when Stuart Howkins was yellow carded, and then red carded for an incident with the Henley flanker who also saw red.

Lightning strike twice as fightback starts

MK LIGHTNING 6
GUILDFORD FLAMES 5 (OT)

SHEFFIELD SCIMITARS 0
MK LIGHTNING 2

A BAD opening weekend was put to bed as MK Lightning recorded back-to-back victories.

Nick Poole's side took to the ice at the bottom of the table with no points and although they remain at the foot of the English Premier League they do now have four points and two games in hand.

However, it could have been a third straight defeat had Lightning not forced Guildford into overtime.

Guildford held a two goal lead in the third period until MK sprung into life to snatch the points.

Lightning had started the scoring in the first period when Gary Clarke latched on to Andre Smulter's assist.

The Flames were able to pull one back on the 27th minute but James Archer soon restored Lightning's lead.

Smulter extended the advantage further until Lukas Smital and Stephen Lee managed to make the scoreline 3-3 at the break.

Within 20 seconds of the third Guildford scored twice leaving it up to Lightning coach Poole to bring his team back into proceedings.

A short handed goal from Poole inspired the side and a Smulter power play effort took the game into overtime.

Lightning claimed the points when another power play saw Clarke strike for the victory.

On Sunday Lightning then rounded off a tough weekend with a solid 2-0 display.

A week ago Milton Keynes had surrendered an early lead to Sheffield eventually losing 3-2.

This time Lightning did not leak the goals and though only two goals were scored Poole would have been pleased with the performance.

In a relatively quiet game Adam Carr gave Lightning a 1-0 lead in the first period, a score that would remain until the final period.

After good attacking movements Lightning reaped the rewards of their pressure as Gary Clarke grabbed the second to ensure a four point weekend.

■ MK Lightning host Bracknell on Saturday at Planet Ice, face-off is at 7pm and on Sunday travel to Romford, face-off is at 5.15pm.

A disappointed Poulter said: "I came here to win but I am going home second, so I'm not very happy.

Darren Anderton rolls back the years to help Cherries pick off Dons

MK DONS 0

AFC BOURNEMOUTH 1
Johnstone's Paint Trophy
Southern Area second round

TEN man MK Dons surrendered the Johnstone's Paint Trophy last night as they were knocked out of the competition by Bournemouth.

Former England and Spurs star Darren Anderton sealed the Dons' fate with a 77th minute tap-in to end the Dons' title defence at the second round stage.

But the Dons will feel robbed of their trophy as Flavien Belson's straight red card on the 47th minute appeared harsh and out of character in what had been a lacklustre game.

Belson's dismissal left the Dons with an uphill challenge while Bournemouth, who were knocked out of the same competition by the Dons last season, were out to seek revenge.

Chances were few and far between and the Dons were left to rue not taking the little opportunities that fell their way.

One of which came early when Kevin Gallen stung Shawn Jalal's palms for the first time.

Gallen picked up the ball in his own half as he embarked on a run through the middle, easily turning Scott Guyett in the process before a good strike from the left of the box was caught by the Cherries' keeper.

Sixty seconds later Florium Sturm released him on the right but Gallen fired wide.

There was not much to suggest that a division separates the two sides in the early exchanges.

Bournemouth had Warren Cummings' tame effort easily saved by Nathan Abbey, and Marvin Bartley looked clean through to goal until Abbey cleared with his legs on the edge of the box.

Mark Wright forced a save from Jalal and Sturm was unable to convert at the near post in the Dons' final chances before the break.

The Dons, having made two substitutes in the interval, were then dealt a massive blow when Belson was shown red for a challenge on Brett Pitman within two minutes of the restart.

Both the Dons and Bournemouth appeared baffled by the decision and it meant an uphill struggle for Di Matteo's men.

Pitman could have added further to the home sides misery when he collected yards from the goal mouth but with Miguel Llera and Carl Regan on his back the Cherries striker found the ball stuck under his feet and then struck well wide.

Bournemouth threw men upfront in a hope to take advantage of their extra man.

It meant the Dons had to take their chances when they fell and Gallen, who appeared to be in the air for an age as Sturm's delivery from the left reached him, thought he had headed the Dons ahead only for Jalal's superb save to deny him.

There were close calls for the Dons when they cleared an almighty goalmouth scramble following Pitman's nod down, then Anderton smashed the woodwork with a fierce strike.

But Anderton was the man to break the deadlock on on the 77th minute.

The Dons failed to close down Danny Hollands allowing him to drive a 25-yard low cross-shot which Anderton stuck a leg at to knock the ball beyond Abbey.

Dons tried their best to claw their way back but in the end were left to hand back the Johnstone's Paint Trophy after just seven months in their possession.
